March 2026

Prescient acquires Dolon, to enhance its strategic pricing and market access capabilities and expertise across the drug lifecycle.

London, UK – 30th March 2026 – Prescient (Prescient Healthcare Group) has acquired London-based pricing and market access consultancy Dolon, strengthening its ability to support global biopharma companies navigating increasingly complex and interconnected clinical, commercial and market access environments.

Following the successful acquisition of healthcare consultancy Uptake (Uptake Strategies) earlier this year, the addition of Dolon represents the next step in Prescient’s rapid growth journey, significantly enhancing the breadth of Prescient’s offer to the market.

Dolon will retain its specialist focus, joining as a dedicated Value, Pricing and Access practice working alongside Prescient’s established teams. For clients, the partnership will deliver seamless, comprehensive support for complex challenges, ensuring vital strategic pricing and market access insights inform pivotal decisions earlier and further across the product lifecycle.

The partnership delivers significant new opportunities for both parties and supports Dolon’s next phase of growth within a broader global platform.

Jason McKenna, CEO of Prescient, commented: “Dolon brings deep strategic pricing and market access expertise and a strong cultural alignment that makes this a natural fit for Prescient. As the environment for pricing and reimbursement continues to evolve, strengthening our capabilities in this area enhances our ability to provide expanded lifecycle support to clients where and when they need it. This acquisition reflects our commitment to purposeful growth and to building the specialist expertise that supports the success of our clients.”

Adam Hutchings, Managing Partner of Dolon, commented: “Prescient stood out for its strategic thinking, long-term partnerships with senior global decision makers and strong cultural alignment. Joining Prescient gives us the platform to scale our impact, combining our specialist expertise with broader clinical, commercial and RWE solutions, a stronger US presence and enhanced AI capabilities. Together, we can support clients earlier and more comprehensively across the product lifecycle, helping accelerate access to innovative medicines for patients. We’re excited about what this enables for our clients and our team.”

The transaction is supported by Prescient’s existing investor Bridgepoint, which partnered with the company in 2021 via Bridgepoint Development Capital, a lower middle-market fund focused on supporting fast-growing businesses across Europe.

Alan Payne, Partner and Deputy Head of Bridgepoint Development Capital, added: “Dolon represents a strong strategic addition to Prescient, complementing existing skills and adding value, pricing and market access capabilities. The acquisition further strengthens Prescient’s offer to clients and demonstrates continued momentum in the growth strategy prosecuted over the past five years with Bridgepoint’s support.”

Financial details of the transaction were not disclosed.

Dolon and its shareholders were advised by Bourne Partners (financial) and Squire Patton Boggs (legal).
